WHO WE ARE

inRebus Educational business line is dedicated to research and development of le-learning and digital information solutions.

inRebus was born in Turin in 2003 as a software house and consulting company, following a development path in the IT sector started in the 90s. A few years ago arised as a challenge the idea of setting the e-learning formation for business alongside the activity of software development. Investment of resources and union of different origins and worlds: that's how inRebus Educational came to life and rapidly transformed that challenge into a vital and constantly evolving reality.

THE TEAM

We work with enthusiasm and we manage crisis with the help of sweets and coffee.

Our team is a cohesive and tight group that includes instructional designers, graphic designers and developers, all working under the lead of the project manager. The creative process involves everyone: we believe that has his share inside each project. In addition to the permanent team, we built a miscellaneous coworkers network: from the most prominent experts to highly passionate young freelancers. Our coworkers are a valuable resource to guarantee the highest execution and professionalism level especially when we undertake the most daring projects.
